

Welcome to Tattnall Square Center for the Arts!
Home to the Mercer Theatre Department

Mercer University Theatre is dedicated to the concept that Theatre is where all of the arts converge and meet life. Theatre invigorates, challenges, informs, entertains, and enriches our lives at our deepest level. Whether it is a traditional treatment of a classic, a visit to the absurd, the development of a new work, or a crowd-pleasing musical, Mercer Theatre meets the challenges with the talents and dedication of its faculty, staff, and students.

Mercer Theatre offers an exciting variety of opportunities for students to explore performance, technical theatre, design, stage management, playwriting, and directing. Typically, four major productions are produced each year (two a semester) with student showcases and other performance and technical opportunities available through university projects and the touring Broadway Series at Grand Opera House.

Hedda Gabler, 2015

She Kills Monster, 2016
